About Atomic Recruitment

Atomic Recruitment is an Australian based international consulting firm established since 2000. Atomic provides executive search, recruitment, and selection services to meet the specific hiring requirements of our clients.

Atomic China operations benefits from both international and local experience and knowledge to best serve its F500 partners. Since 2005 Atomic Recruitment Shanghai office has developed into a large firm with a reputation to provide international level services.

Every assignment handled by Atomic utilizes a experienced professional team from around the world: Australia, USA., Canada, Singapore, Hong Kong, and all over China.

Continuously Growing in 2011

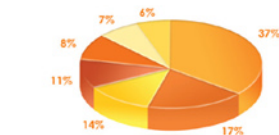

2011 was a very successful year for Atomic Recruitment experiencing 40% growth. We were able to close over 250 roles across a broad range of functions and industries with your support.

Our core area of focus continues to be manufacturing based industries where we have a long history of success. New development this year is our entry into the luxury retail market with a new team with rich experience and ability.

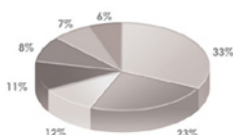

We are looking forward to an equally exciting and successful year in 2012 in partnering with our clients to achieve their business needs in talent recruitment.

Testimonials

From Clients:

"Atomic has always represented our interests well. A different, function specific, consultant has handled each placement. Nevertheless, our unique desires and culture have been understood and carried from engagement to engagement resulting in quick placements with a zero failure rate."

General Manager China

"We have used Atomic Recruitment to fill all managerial positions at the start up phase of our company. We have been very pleased with the speed with which they have actioned our requests as well as with the care for quality in their work process during and after the recruitments."

Managing Director,
Manufacturing Company, Suzhou

"Our group came to China with solid industrial and commercial projects! We therefore have been through a lot of searches and recruitments to build local teams ... it, often and unfortunately, ended with various levels of satisfaction ... Unlike other recruiting firms, Atomic Consulting search service demonstrated a strong skill for finding talented professionals with reliable and adapted personal inter-skills. The result was a very "tailored made" approach reflecting the demand for specific professional talents and the need of reliable and personal fit with the new comer into our existing organization."

General Manager,
Europ Chemical Company, Shanghai

From Candidates:

"I would like to sincerely thank the Atomic Recruitment team for helping me secure a great job in Shanghai. The information given is aligned perfectly with the current job market and the team's efforts to understand my situation at the time as well as expectations made Atomic Recruitment the best possible choice."

Mark W.

"Atomic offered me a life changing opportunity. Their professionalism, guidance and caring impressed me."

Celine C., Marketing Manager
